Explain which cell, A or B, could support a faster rate of diffusion of nutrients.

B? It's larger so it could have a large surface area to volume ratio

A, larger surface area

Single-celled organisms do not have lungs, but large multicellular organisms like humans do have lungs. Explain why.

Humans have a small surface area to volume ratio so we need specialised organs for different processes otherwise we'd die.

Single-celled organisms have large surface area to volume ratio so they don't need special organs for each process
